Confessions of a Street Addict takes us from Cramer's roots in the middle-class Philadelphia suburbs to Harvard, where he began managing money, and then to Goldman Sachs, where he went into business with his wife -- Karen, the "Trading Goddess" -- as his partner. He brilliantly describes the life of a money manager: the frenetic pace, the constant pressure to outperform the market and other fund managers, and the sharklike attacks fund managers make as they circle a fund perceived to be in ...

Wall-Clock Time The hardware (or hardware/software hybrid) clocks just discussed all have one thing in common: they are simply counters, and as such have no direct relationship to what most of us think of as time, commonly referred to as wall-clock time. To derive wall-clock time from these counters requires some fairly
